OYAN Executive Committee Meeting (September 22, 2017) - Julie

- Bylaw change

Change for the Mock Printz? It was discussed to move the Mock Printz into the bylaws of OYAN in an effort to make it more official and worthy of staff time. It was decided to add it to the objections section, therefore making it a legitimate responsibility without needing board approval, which can be time consuming. K'Lyn will create its own website.

- OLA Memberclicks emails

Decided to send out quarterly emails to new OYAN members about OYAN, website, and blog.

- OLA preconference

The proposal is, understanding autism, will hear back soon. OTAC (Oregon Training and Consultation) out of Salem, will do the preconference, once approved we will figure out cost. It will be a half-day session. We will be sure to ask conference committee how much they are taking before setting price point.

OLA Board Report – Julie

OLA is contemplating automated listserv, maybe an opt in email and letting people know about the facebook page, committee to look at OLA update core values on the website, contact Buzzy or Elsa. Discussion about how we might want to get an author for Friday night of the event since it went well last year. State will potentially be giving out a 1,000 scholarship for the different divisions of OLA. OYAN would use it for members for extra scholarships. How people would use it and apply will be determined once it is approved.

Resource Sharing / Program Ideas

Share your great program ideas! If possible, bring instructions, tips, and performers' contacts or anything else that will help us copy you!

Aimee- Horror Movie Bingo and watched Insidious, 26 teens, 8 won giant candy bars, Two Rooms and a Boom is a game she just bought, going to try it.

Mark- Stranger Things, 3 jeopardy powerpoints (available to share) Games on Wednesday when it's early release.

Keli- Traveling escape room kit, breakout.edu (also a facebook page) a lot are user created, play through it before you give it to your teens. Teen services underground has a lot of success stories. Amy at Forest Grove has done a DIY one, look under the physical education section for the physically focused program. Exploding kittens (expansion comes with a human size cone) nice compromise from Crimes Against Humanities. Bring Your Own Book, a fun book focused game.

Gretchen- Keep Talking and Nobody Explodes (website)

Megan - Forbidden Island, Forbidden Desert, Mr. Jack (Jack the Ripper) 2 player game, code names and Bang. Bloxels Stem program (also look for the app), need a tablet. A more hands on approach not as intimidating as other coding programs. Rpg makers you can manipulate code if you chose, or use builder mode. Get newest version. There's a book too, RPG Maker by Michael Duggars.

Lisa- Practice ACT huge turnout, Hungington handled the registration. Limited it to grades 9-12 next time 10-12, next year a slime program (not related to the ACT).

Josie- 3D doodlers, (3Doodler) use them at events, bought 12 for about $250.00 they used biodegradable ink, K'Lyn brought them to the art club, and they had a good time. Could be a series program. Get the new kid friendly version.

How to get ACT SAT practice tests in the rural areas? They use the participant's information for marketing, so some libraries have stopped offering program.

Ian – haunted gingerbread houses, watch movies, using graham crackers

Sonja – Giant Clue game (a lot of mentoring from Sonja) huge crowd (60) giant inflatable dice, taped the carpet grid for the game board. Flexible, more fun than real clue, there is a Harry Potter clue that is really fun, more engaging than original.

Kristy – A local artist came and helped teens design and paint a mural, painted a board so it is mobile. Look for local art group, or artist, great collaborative event. Diana Ryan in Corvallis.

Raffle Prize Solicitation Brainstorming

Last year we kind of did the same as the year before, any new ideas?

- Bobbye sister is a silversmith, will try to get a donation.
- Keli's neighbors are potters, will donate pots with succulents.
- Sonja neighbor will make shadow puppets inspired by YA novels.
- Amy's sister illustrates A Small Blue Whale maybe she can paint something.
- Drawing through random picker makes it difficult to pick prizes you want, but logistically it is extremely difficult to let people enter for certain prizes.
- prize swap after? Let's think about a different way to draw it, regift...
- winery or brewery for The Dalles or a hotel
- Caldecott event (November 12) 2017, a set of signed books
- Story scarves
- lan will do Shakespeare
- escape room video game
- voice box
- There was discussion about keeping the online option open at the conference. The cap is on OLA as a division so we have to close memberclicks to make sure the online sales don't exceed the limit. Try to push online and limit paper tickets? Mostly it's a logistics thing, don't want to exceed cap. Could we have someone walking around with a tablet encouraging online sales?
- online sales were about 180.

30 min Group Discussion: Flops and failures.....

Kristy- Teens wanted a makeup practice session, went from rocky horror, to costume makeup day, kind of a bust.

Keli- Partnering with a teacher/author at a high school with a poetry club, one kid and one teacher showed up, pulled three kids from the library...

Sonja -Mindy Raf was skyping with Sonja and no teens, canceled on SA Bodeen to avoid further embarrassment... Jack Gantos is coming to Salem next week 😊 How'd it go Sonja?

Bobbye - Matt DeLaPena came to Tillamook 3 teachers and 2 teens...

Combine kickboxers with your author visits 😊

Vera Brosgol (Anya's Ghost) is local and a great presenter, comic workshop....

Lisa -Dia de los Muertos 8 teens, picture books with diverse characters, 4 different stations, one kid showed up..

Mark -Knights of Veritas – only 2 kids showed up, super hot out...

Publication Update / Goodreads / ARC – Keli

Goodreads – sitting languishing, Keli wants to turn it into a state wide resource. Share reviews and booktalks.

Digital booklists, living that can be added and help others modify their own.

Would booktalks be useful?

Bookraves could they be transcribed to goodreads?

OYAN online readers advisory, useful to us and bring attention

#bookrave... #mockprintz is titles should be considered for either list, there's a link on the website

Put logo on the site

Send it to Keli (email) to have it submitted, will look into a public list where others can contribute, Keli will research options. Change it group?

CSLP Report - K'Lyn

Catalogs here, Libraries rock, the online manuals, emails will be out soon. 2 step authentication to log on to the manual. Tiered access. Haven't heard about the teen video challenge. There was talk of a change, shorter videos... K'Lyn will double check soon, OYAN would need to decide if it would supply the prize (150) to the winners, CSLP provides the library 50. (?) Not sure if she can access Oregon's choices to fully represent the state's wishes... CSLP or K'Lyn will email out requests for input, meeting is the week before OLA in Denver, next year is in Florida. Ask if you have any questions. Universe of Stories is 2019 theme.
